Decision Delayed

Supervisors Asked To Take Stand On Fair Housing Act

(CNS) — The County Board of Supervisors Monday delayed a decision on a request they take a stand in favor of the Rumford Fair Housing Act and against the initiative move of the California Real Estate Assn. to hamstring the act.

Supervisors said they wanted more time to determine the legal aspects of the controversy, especially with regard to the effect endorsement of the Rumford act would have on the constitutional right that all citizens have of petition.

Stanford Herlick, county counsel, told the Board that the Rumford act is an implementation of the 14th amendment to the U. S. Constitution, which provides for equality for all citizens. He also declared that there is an equal right to petition for a law that citizens want passed, but he added that the CREA initiative, if it gets on the ballot in November, 1964, and is passed, might be found unconstitutional because it is contrary to the 14th amendment.

Those asking the Board for action pointed out that a decision for the Rumford act would not be one against the right of initiative. Art Townsend, housing chairman for the San Bernardino branch of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, said: "We're not asking you to go on record as opposed to the basic right of initiative. We're just asking you to oppose this particular initiative, here's a difference."

"Can you explain the difference?" asked Supervisor S. Wesley Break.

And Herlick told Townsend he was asking the Board of Supervisors, a non-partisan body, to take a position on a political issue.

"But this is a political body," answered Townsend, "and this is not a partisan issue."

Supervisors listened for almost an hour to pleas for some action on the request for a stand. They heard the following among the supporters for fair housing act, which makes discrimination for color, race or national or religious background illegal in housing: Mrs. Carol Dunson, Loma Linda, who asked for time on the Board agenda as a representative of the San Bernardino Democratic Council; Rev. Carl Doss, pastor of the First Methodist Church, Redlands, and a member of the human relations committee; Ray Conaster, Democratic nominee in the last election for the post of State Assemblyman from the 73rd District, and John Coleman, Redlands, acting chairman of the Human Relations Commission.

Supervisors agreed that they

Hixson's Named 'Home of Month'

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hixson, 7844 Valle Vista, Cucamonga, was selected as the "Home of the Month" by the Cucamonga Homeowners Association. The home was built by the Hixson's five years ago.

Norman and Mary Hixson have four daughters. Linda, 21, attends San Diego State College, Norman Jean, 14, is a sophomore at Alta Loma High, and twins, Donna and Diane, 10, are in 4th grade at Valle Vista School.

Mr. Hixson is secretary and General Manager of the Cucamonga County Water District District.

County Zoning Enforcement Gets Teeth

'(CNS) — A tightening up of zoning enforcement, ordered some weeks ago by the County Board of Supervisors, received its first set of teeth Monday from the Board.

Supervisors approved the hiring of two enforcement officers. They also agreed to buy one air-conditioned station wagon and another car, for use by the new enforcement officers. The county now has only one enforcement officer.

Neil Pfulb, county planning director, asked for a car and a pick-up truck. He said the truck would have four-wheel drive, for use in desert and mountain areas.

"That's what worries me," said Supervisor Ross Dana, who represents the desert and mountain sections of the county. "I think you're figuring on going into all the remote areas looking for violations."

Supervisor S. Wesley Break said that a pick-up truck would be too difficult to ride in, so the station wagon was approved.

The cost for the expansion, needed because the county has a back-log of 1,200 uninvestigated reports of violations, will be $5,868 for salaries for the two investigators for the remaining six months of the fiscal year, $909 for a part-time secretary for the same time, $1,231 for office furniture, and the cost of the cars.

It was figured these would be $5831 if a truck and a car were purchased, but it was estimated that a station wagon would be $1,000 to $2,000 more expensive.

Supervisors directed Pfulb to use the station wagon to take members of the County Planning Commission out on their inspection tours. He was also asked whether the two new investigators could be laid off after the back-log of complaints has been wiped out.

The planning director replied that he never expected to have the county caught up on its violations. He said the investigation of each complaint would probably result in other violations in the immediate area. There should be action against all, not just one, he added.

Death Claims Dr. Brubaker

Funeral services for Dr. Henry G. Brubaker, prominent Upland theologian, are scheduled for 2 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 26 at the Brethren in Christ Church, 845 W. Arrow Hwy. Officiating will be Bishop Alvin C. Burkholder and Rev. Eber B. Dourte, pastor.

Dr. Brubaker died Dec. 22

at San Antonio Community Hospital following a short illness. He was 67.

He was president of Upland College from 1933-39 and from 1949-54. Dr. Brubaker was also serving as vice chairman of the Upland City Planning Commission.

Born in Bainbridge, Pa., Nov. 7, 1896, Dr. Brubaker had lived in Upland for 35 years. He lived at 644 W. Arrow Hwy.

He learned the printing business at an early age and used this knowledge to pay his own way through school. He completed high school and two years of college at Messiah Academy.

His B.A. degree was earned at Emerson College and he did graduate work at Emerson, Boston University, Pennsylvania State College, Claremont College and Pasadena College. He received his Doctor of Divinity Degree at Pasadena College in 1925 and his Doctor of Theology degree at the Los Angeles Baptist Theological Seminary in 1942.

Most of Dr. Brubaker's teaching career was at Upland College, although he also taught at Azusa College and the Los Angeles Baptist Seminary. He taught speech, philosophy and theology.

He was author of a book on the emotional problems of the adolescent boy and has written many articles for church publications. Dr. Brubaker served as assistant editor of the Evangelical Messenger, official national publication of the Brethren in Christ Church, for eight years.

He was a member of Phi Delta Kappa, Phi Kappa Delta, Association of Colleges and Universities, Claremont Book Review Club and the Association for Advancement of Science. He is listed in Who's Who in American Clergy, American Leaders in Education and and Who's Who in the West.

Dr. Brubaker was a former long-time member of the Upland Rotary Club and had served on the City Parks and Recreation Committee.

In addition to his service as Bishop, Dr. Brubaker had served his church on the national level in many capacities. He was General Conference Secretary for ten years, served as Moderator of the General Conference, and was chairman of the publication board for the past six years.

Since retiring as a full time professor, his major endeavor has been that of building a block wall around the Upland College athletic field. Through his arrangement, blocks for the 2000 foot wall had been donated and he was doing the masonry work assisted by student labor. About three more days would have completed the wall.

Last week, Dr. Brubaker fell while working on the wall and was hospitalized with injuries which included two broken ribs.

Following funeral services on Thursday, entombment will be in Bellevue Mausoleum. Stone Funeral Home has charge of arrangements.

He is survived by his wife, Anna N Brubaker of Upland; three sisters, Anna G., Amelia G., and Sara G. Brubaker, all of Upland; four brothers, Benjamin F. and John M. of Upland; Norman G. and Mathew, both of Grantham, Pa.

Music, Drama, Art Students Combine Talents In Program

Students at Upland High School have provided for the residents of the community one of the finest Christmas programs ever witnessed.

Combining the talents of the music groups at the school, the efforts of the drama classes, and the insights of the art classes, the students last week presented for parents and fellow students a complete program of inspirational music and scenes which left the audience with a feeling of warmness and reverence.

The program was divided into eight parts: UHS Band, Mixed Chorus, Ensemble, Girl's Chorus, Band, Advanced Girl's Glee Club, a capella Choir, and Combined groups singing the Hallelula Chorus.

The band, under the direction of Mr. Elbert Warren, began the program with inspirational music. They were followed immediately by the mixed chorus, directed by Mr. Charles Whitham, which sang "Here We Come A-caroling", "Angles We Have Heard On High," and "In the Highest Glory." They were accompanied by Miss Diane Overstreet.

Mr. Whitham then led his Ensemble in a grouping of popular Christmas music, headlighted by such numbers as "Mistletoe," "How Sweet the Bells of Christmas," "Christmas is Just for Children," and "Have Yourself a Merry Little Christmas," the last number featuring soloists Susan Fonda and Connie Engle.

Linda Galloway and Cindy Beissker provided the accompaniment for the Ensemble.

The band and the Girl's Chorus followed with medleys of Christmas music. The Advanced Girl's Glee Club sang "Around for Christmas," and "All My Heart this Night Rejoices."

The brass quartet of Greg Beck, Greg Harrah, Bill Harrah, and Jim Beedling rendered the traditional "Gloria in Excelsis Deo." Francis Riner provided the accompaniment for the group.

One of the most impressive areas of the program was the cantata performed by the a capella Choir, the schools modern dance classes, and the dramatics department.

Presented before backdrops of huge murals painted by members of the art classes under the guidance of instructor Raymond Shultz, and scenery provided by various departments in the school, the tableau depicted the various phases of Christmas throughout eternity.

Soloists Steve Whitford, Larry Collier, Sandy Schiereck, and Judy Tennis combined with the efforts of accompanist Jan's Parker and narrators Keith Miller and Denyse Weber to provide the background for the many changing scenes presented by the other groups.

The first scene of the cantata involved students Mike Lujinsky, Don Bruno, Ann Johannsen, Patsy Gomez, Bob Beck, Gary Kirkland, Sheila Thacker, Allene Accomazzo, and Bobbi Asbill in a modern Christmas scene depicting the typical daily activities preceding Christmas day. They were trimming the Christmas tree, wrapping packages, decorating the room with holly and wreaths, and filling the Christmas stockings which were hanging from the fireplace.

Barbara Beard, Sonja Jensen, Pandora Nash, and Claudia Ammons then stole the scene with their modern dance interpretations of musical themes sung by the a capella group. These for girls represented the dance classes of the school, and were under the direction of instructor Mary Jo Gonzales.

IMPRESSIVE PAINTING, one of the many done by Upland High School students for the Christmas program, depicts the three kings who brought their gifts to the Christ child.

Returning to center stage were the members of Miss Bayless' dramatics class for three consecutive scenes in the panorama. The first of the three took spectators back to the days of Queen Elizabeth, and depicted Pamela Dean, Gary Kirkland, Bob Beck, and Wynn Sands as wandering village musicians playing their instruments beneath the light of a street lamp.

Cary Miller, Janet Gerdes, Judy Hilbe, Don Bruno, Virginia Johnson, and Marlene Vackerics then depicted the Happy New Year Scene of young children receiving "Figgy Pudding Treats."

In the succeeding scene Leslie Olson shared the spotlight with two young children as she portrayed a mother reading the Christmas story to her youngsters.

After a quick clearing of the stage the dance group again presented an interpretation of the music being sung in the background, and set the stage for the next drama scene, in which Bob Beck depicted a lonely monk studying in his bleak cell.

The tempo of the cantata slowly increased, and the dance group prepared the audience for the next scene. Mike Blessent and Kent Lindow played the part of the Christmas shepherds watching their flocks of sheep.

For the last time the dance group broke in and set the stage for the final pageant of the production. The Nativity, one of the most impressive and meaningful of all the scenes in the cantata, had shepherds Mike Blessent and Kent Lindow returning to the stage to join wise men Jeff Weber, Tommy Jackson, and Dave Shoji as they knelt before Sharon Burks as Mary and Mike Nelson as Joseph.

Concluding the entire program was a stirring "Hallelujah Chorus" performed by members of all the groups singing the program.

MODERN DANCE students, Pandora Nash, Claudia Ammons, Sonja Jensen and Barbara Beard, perform around a huge Christmas card prepared by the art department as background for the program.

Community Progress Poll To Get Ideas

The News is looking for ideas — suggestions from the people of Upland concerning projects for 1964 that the City of Upland should be working on.

We will publish a coupon type ad in the next issue of the News, which residents may use to send in their suggestions, or we will accept suggestions on postcards or in letters.

As they come in to us, we will set them in type, and publish all the suggestions we can in our Progress Edition on Jan. 23.

We do not limit the suggestions to the City, however, but want you to include some ideas for other local governmental agencies, schools, water district, fire district, county, service, clubs, etc.

We will place no limits on the suggestions other than the usual request that they not be libelous and be in taste.

Purpose of the Progress Poll is to help give all officials some guidance from the public as to what the local people want.

For further comment on the Progress Poll, see the editorial Page.

Casa Colina Campaigns For Funds

The first eleven days of the mail campaign has resulted in $25,000 for Casa Colina Rehabilitation Center according to Lawrence G. Crowley, M. D., president of the Board of Directors.

Dr. Crowley said the amount thus far is $2,000 short of last year's total at this time. He was confident that the residents of the area would respond to the annual appeal to raise funds for the patients who are unable to pay for their care and treatment at the Center.

A total of $250,000 must be raised through contributions if the Center is to carry on its program of Rehabilitation for crippled children and adults. Rehabilitation nursing, education through the twelfth grades, physical therapy, occupational therapy, speech and hearing, social services, and psychological services, are offered.

Special programs, such as the Day School for cerebral palsy children and the many clinics at the Center are free to the patients who cannot afford to pay. Outpatients are treated on this basis also.

Contributions may be sent to Casa Colina, 255 East Bonita, Pomona.

Smoke Signals

By Valerie Lee Prisel

Our last week of school ended in cheers and a succession of victories.

Our varsity basketball team is the pride of Alta Loma. Tuesday afternoon we were hosts to Fontana High.

In this game we took and held the lead throughout the game, the final score was 69-55, and on Friday evening, Dec. 20, we were scheduled to play Corona High, but due to over scheduling they cancelled.

However our basketball coach, Mr. Rischer, was able to arrange another with Pomona High's J. V. team. They played a rough game, but the Braves wouldn't back down. Steve Kokor and Andy Arner played their level best, boosting the score to a final high of 74-54.

Friday evening, Dec. 20, our last dance of the year was held in the Alta Loma cafeteria. The "Warrior Waltz," which was sponsored by the football team was a huge success.

January 7, we will begin our league games. Our first opponents will be from Bloomington High. The basketball team needs all the support they can get. So plan to start the new year right by attending all of our games.

In closing, I would like to wish you a Merry Christmas, and a Happy New Year, and may your holidays be filled with the true Spirit of Christmas.

No more news just now, but there will be more in '64.

C-AL Garden Group Meet

The Garden Section of the Cucamonga Alta Loma Woman's Club met for a morning Christmas party on Wednesday, Dec. 18.

Members brought plants to be given to the Upland Chapter of the American Red Cross for distribution in hospitals. These were picked up during the meeting by the American National Red Cross Executive Secretary from Upland, Mrs. John Alderman, and taken directly to Patton State Hospital.

When the members arrived, they were given paper sacks which they found contained materials for Christmas corsages. Instructions for making these were given by Mrs. Arthur Allen, so in a short while each member was wearing a gay holiday corsage.

Then several games were played, with prizes going to Mrs. Don Schmidt and Mrs. Glenn Putnam.

The container, in which the group had been collecting "Pennies for Pines" during the meetings, was then opened; and was found to contain $16.00. This project will continue in the new year.

A colorful luncheon was served by the committee: Mesdames William Scott, Harold Hively, G. H. Bigham, Allen, and the Garden Section Chairman, Miss Clara Young.

IN RECOGNITION of his work in organizing the first band, David Wiggins, center, Alta Loma High School music director, was presented a plaque by the 38 members of his band. Valerie Prisel, left, and Sandra Malek, headed the committee for the purchase. Wiggins came to ALHS from Atlanta, Ga. where he was band director at Russell High. He is a graduate of Texas Tech College. Wiggins built an organization at Alta Loma "from scratch" which was ready to perform capably at the first pep rally last fall. The new band marched and played at football games and now is assisting the pep groups at basketball games. It will be expanded next year as Alta Loma becomes a full four-year high school.

Brave Cagers Collect Wins

By Tom Abbott

The big Brave cagers collected twin sweeps last week as they soundly whipped the Fontana and Pomona JV teams.

On Tuesday the Braves ran away from the Fohi 69 to 38 on the Alta Loma hardwood. Center Andy Arner led all scorers with 27 points to up his seasonal average to 20.2 points per game.

Steve Kokor and Fred Wilding also hit in double figures scoring 16 and 11 points respectively. Fred played an outstanding defensive game stealing numerous passes.

After sustaining a knee injury in football Gary Conner saw his first action as a basketballer. He played an outstanding defensive game and contributed two fouls to a total of twenty for the contest.

Friday Pomona visited the Alta Loma gym and were soundly whipped 74 to 47. Steve Kokor notched the high scoring standard of the year by putting in 29 points. Andy Arner was right behind his teammate with 26.

Captain Fred Wilding with his quick hands snatched away six enemy passes to lead the team in that catagory.

Andy Arner also set a standard by pulling down a record 17 rebounds for the Braves.

Guard John Morris fouled out early in the third quarter. These five fouls added to his teammates 19 also set another record for the Braves of Alta Loma.

In the B contest the Braves effort for a come back victory was halted in the final minute of play as they lost 38 to 34 to the Pomona JV subs.

Ron Millet led the Braves in scoring with 14 points and would have had more but he went to the showers early via the foul route.

Kartzdafner of Pomona led all scorers with 17 points hitting six field goals and five of eleven free throws.

This week the varsity team will travel to Perris High School for a Christmas tourney. The tourney starts the day after Christmas and ends on the 28 of December.

Highlanders Display New Plaid in Case

Upland High School, the Highlanders, are proudly displaying the school plaid in a new case. Designed by Miss Sally Jo Mertz, class of 1962, the tartan colors and proportions are all symbolic of some aspect of the high school district.

In general appearance it is green and white in color, with lines of red and orange and black running through it. The tartan has been officially adopted by the student body as the official emblem of the school.

It is worn by the drill team, the cheerleaders, the song leaders.

The display case for the tartan was constructed by the industrial arts department of the school. Worked on by many students under the tutelage of Mr. William Turner, woodshop instructor, the case was completed just a few weeks ago. It is now on permanent display in the front foyer of the administration office of the school.

Besides holding an artistically draped piece of the plaid, the case houses a write-up of the history and meaning of the tartan.

HIGHLANDER PLAID is displayed in a new case in the foyer of the administration building of Upland High School. The tartan was adopted by the student body as the official school emblem. The new display case was built for the permanent exhibit by the industrial arts students. Shown with the new display is Bob Smith.

County Savings Bonds Continue Upward Trend

"San Bernardino County residents strengthened support of the U. S. Savings Bonds Program during November by purchasing $688,367 worth of the Series E and Series H," County Volunteer Chairman Robert V. Fullerton reported.

"This brings total County sales for the first eleven months of 1963 up to $7,764,808," the Chairman said when noting, "there has been steady upswing both locally and nationally in Savings Bonds sales during the year."

In the eleven Southern California Counties, sales for November continued the upward trend started last January. The amount was $13,760,578, boosting the total 1963 sales in the Southland to $177,673,737, up 7.1 percent over sales for the same period last year.

"The citizens of San Bernardino County," the Chairman continued, "own a substantial share of national Savings Bonds holdings which are at an all-time high of $47 billion as compared with approximately $30 billion at the end of World War II."

College Hosts Fellowship Bible Study

Upland College will host about 40 college and university students from California and Arizona campuses who will spend five days Dec. 26 to Dec. 31 at an Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship Bible Study Conference to be held on the local campus.

Both private and state schools will be represented, including such campuses as UCLA, University of Southern California, University of Arizona, Los Angeles State College, Long Beach State, San Diego State, Cal Poly, and Fresno State.

Lacking the consistent exposure to the Scriptures which is a part of the curriculum of a Christian college, these students from secular campuses are aware of the value of setting aside time — in this case giving up a large part of their Chistmas vacation - to supplement their weekly campus Bible studies.

They will spend the five days, exploring a given passage, with the mornings given over to small group discussions and the afternoons and evenings to individual research.

Mr. Paul Byer, Regional Director of Inter-Varsity, will speak several times on "Men Who Lived Under the Authority of God."

The expected results of the conference will be a grounding in the concepts developed by the passage studied, a new awareness of what it means to live under the authority of the Scripture, and a preparedness for helping other students, back on their campuses, to experience similarly this type of Bible study.

Through cooperation with teachers in other departments, over 150 students viewed Mrs. Goodsell's demonstrations in a two-hour period.

Mrs. Goodsell is a graduate of Brigham University, and holds a California General Secondary Teaching Credential. She is a member of the California Business Education Association, and the United Business Education Association.

favored retaining the right of citizens to petition for a redress of wrongs. They asked Herlick and their administrative officer, Robert Covington, to report to them on Jan. 6 as to whether endorsement of the Rumford Fair Housing Act would imply that they were against the right of initiative.

None of the Supervisors made a statement indicating support for the Rumford act, or its purposes.

Supervisor Daniel D. Mikesell asked that the state association of Supervisors be contacted for a concensus of the views of other county officials throughout the state.

Those for the Rumford act said the Supervisors of Los Los Angeles and San Francisco counties had endorsed the act, and Mikesell warned against "pitting one county against another."

There were no opponents of the Rumford act present at the Supervisors meeting, but Board Chairman Nancy Smith said that a petition had been received asking Supervisors to withhold any action on the request for endorsement of the act.

Public Enemy Number One

The wonder of it is that he remains free to stalk the roadways of California, dealing death to several persons each day, leaving many more a few unmerciful inches from the death that might have saved a lifetime of pain, twisting and disfiguring scores of others.

Public sufferance permits his continued existence; by your leave does he still dominate the motoring scene, threatening all who venture on the road.

The curiosity is — why? Why such staggering indifference to a brutal, senseless killer who last year was involved in or directly responsible for more than 1,500 traffic deaths?

Perhaps because far too many drivers have been cast in this role at one time themselves. Perhaps because the consequences of condemning one drinking driver eventually will mean that all — including you — must be punished.

Yes, it is the drinking driver we speak of here, although the California Highway Patrol and other police agencies have a more descriptive name for him — Public Enemy No. 1.

A misnomer? Too dramatic? Hardly. The most infamous criminals in our history never accounted for one-tenth the deaths that can be attributed to the drinking driver in the span of 365 days. The difference is that the drinking driver comes in many forms—male, female, old, young butcher, baker, candlestick maker.

The drinking driver is so common that we cannot point to a single person and say "He is the one. He killed 1,500 people." But in sum drinking drivers, indeed, are Public Enemy No. 1.

This is a grim title. As individuals we shrug it off — even if we have had a few drinks and are about to get behind the wheel. But as soon as we do this, we, you, anyone, begins to fit the description.

Every day, an average of four people die in traffic accidents involving drinking drivers. Shrugging off the image of "Public Enemy" is one thing; shrugging off death quite another.

And when death and the image become synonymous — perhaps then it is time to reshape not only our actions, but also our beliefs.

1964 State Legislature Faces Requests For New School Funds

BY LEONARD KREIDT
Education News Service

The State Board of Education will ask the State Legislature to meet the "education crisis" facing California's public schools by approving a $100 million annual increase in State school support during its 1964 Budget Session.

Recommendations for a similar increase in State aid were voted Dec. 7 by the State Council of Education, the governing body of the California Teachers Association (CTA).

The increased funds are needed, educators report, to halt the current trend to shift more and more of the school finance burden from the State onto the already heavily-burdened local property taxpayer; to reduce California's high pupil-teacher ratios and thus achieve smaller class sizes; to reduce the State's 25 per cent rate of high school drop-outs; to provide effective elementary-level foreign language programs beginning in 1965 as mandated by the 1961 State Legislature; to expand and improve the State's vocational training program; and to upgrade the quality of the teaching staff and the over-all program in all fields as demanded by the enormous challenges of the late 1960's and early 1970's.

In most respects, the Board's 1964 school finance proposal is approximately the same as Assembly Bill 888 in the 1963 legislative session. It contains the controversial county-wide equalization tax proposal which led to the reduction of school support voted in 1963 from the $125 million requested in AB 888 down to the $25 million which the Legislature actually allocated.

State Department of Education officials presented two alternate finance proposals to the Board: one with the county-wide tax, the other without it. The Board voted at its Dec. 12-13 meeting to include the county-wide tax in spite of a prediction it could not be pushed through the Legislature.

The prediction, made by Dr. Ronald W. Cox, associate State superintendent of public instruction, is supported by State Superintendent Max Rafferty, who informed the Board that its views would be fully supported by his department, but that he, Rafferty, would take the public position that the county-wide tax should not be included. The CTA proposal asked for the increased State funds either "with or without" the county-wide tax.

"The Board position on the county-wide tax is consistent with its 1963 stand," Rafferty said, "but I take a practical view point and want to get the money the schools need by any means necessary."

In a statement on teaching about religion in the schools, the Board is urging teachers "to make clear the contributions of religion to our civilization through history, art and ethics. We want the children of California to be aware of the spiritual principles and the faith which undergird our way of life."

The statement, written by Board member Gerald Kennedy, Methodist bishop of Los Angeles, with the help of Board members William A. Norris of Pasadena and Thomas W. Braden of Oceanside, was adopted to clear up misleading interpretations in California which followed United States Supreme Court decisions last June regarding Bible reading and prayer in the public schools.

Religion is not banned from the schools, the Board said. We encourage teaching about religion, it added. Only compulsory prayers and Bible-reading, as in a worship service, are banned.

The Board also decided to:

— Adopt changes in procedures governing the revocation of teacher's licenses to speed the process of arriving at decisions and to enhance the likelihood of just decisions.

— Refer a suggested program for teaching about the contributions of Negroes to the American culture to the California Curriculum Commission for use in developing specifications for social studies textbooks.

— Assign to Bishop Kennedy's Committee on Teaching about the Bill of Rights the job of developing a course outline on teaching about Negro contributions.

— Set tuition fees to be charged out-of-district or out-of-state students by junior college districts at $306 for 30 semester hours of work or $10.20 per unit.

— Ask Dr. Cox to explore "all possible means" of getting 24 new basic arithmetic textbooks, totaling 3,942,000 volumes, printed and into the schools by September, 1964, including having them printed by publishers outside the State, if necessary.

February Wedding Set

The engagement of Miss Beatrice Cano to Mr. Frank Hernandez was announced recently along with plans for a Feb. 8 wedding.

Miss Cano is the daughter of Mrs. Juana Manrique, 757 Washington Blvd., Upland, and the groom-elect is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Reyes Hernandez, of Corona.

The bride-to-be is a 1960 graduate of Upland High School. She attended Chaffey College and is presently a secretary at Norton AFB.

Mr. Hernandez graduated from Corona High School in 1960 and aattended Chaffey College and Riverside City College. He is employed with a Corona furniture firm.

Carpenter To Serve Heart Fund

Ted R. Carpenter, San Bernardino County recorder, has been appointed assistant chairman of the 1964 Heart Fund campaign.

As such, he will serve as chief aide to Supervisor Paul J. Young during the Heart Association's annual county-wide drive for donations next Feb.

"I consider it an honor to have been called upon to help out in this worthy cause," said Carpenter whose honors for unselfish service to his community and mankind are a matter of record.

He has been an active worker and held various posts in San Bernardino and county fund-raising drives for the past 25 years.

"I have always been interested in and inspired by the great work of the Heart Association which does so much for those with heart disease. It is a tireless and unselfish organization that stands ready to help those in need of its services," he declared.

Both Carpenter and Heart Fund Chairman Young have seen heart disease strike at their families.

Carpenter's brother suffered an attack several years ago and is still unable to work and Young's wife is recovering at home from her severe attack last fall.

Carpenter, a 43-year resident of San Bernardino, has been county recorder since 1933.

He has been active in count-less phases of service club, fraternal and community life during those years.

Among his honors, he is a 33rd degree Mason, a reward given only a few for helping others.

His Masonic affiliations include membership in San Bernardino Lodge No. 348, both the York and Scottish Rites, the Shrine, Sciots and Grotto, plus the Long Beach Consistory, in most of which he has held the highest offices.

In addition, Carpenter has served as commander of San Bernardino American Legion Post 14, is past president of both the Lions Club and Eagles Aerie 506 and is a member of the Elks Lodge and United Commercial Travelers.

He and his wife, Elsie, make their home at 2872 Pershing Avenue. Their daughter, Carol, now resides in Riverside and their son, Ted, is doing graduate work at the University of Southern California.

"On the basis of effort expended, those who obtain the greatest amount of money by writing are college students with their letters home."—E. M. Remsburg, Vista (Calif.) Press.

Dedicated To Building A Bigger And Better Community In Which To Work, Live And Relax

Thursday, Dec. 26, 1963

257 E. 9th St., Upland, Calif. — YUkon 2-1385

AN EDITORIAL

Progress Poll Approaching

This is the time when our thoughts begin to turn to a new year. Christmas is in the immediate past, one more holiday coming up, and then we settle down to another year of work and . . . we hope . . . progress.

We should be thinking right now in broad terms of how 1964 can be a better year for ourselves, our family and our community.

Coming up next week will be a "Progress Poll" so the entire community can share ideas.

Concentrating for a moment on our community in all areas, what are the things that are needed or desired to make it a better community in which to work, live and relax?

We can look forward for example, to a revamping of our Euclid Ave. in the areas of the esthetic and practicality.

If the Council accepts the recommendation of the Parks and Recreation Committee, the new planting and decorations will begin during 1964.

Gas Tax Money has been provided for the actual improvement of the Euclid Ave. traffic lanes, ridding us of cobblestone gutters and deep culverts. Just how far the State will go in making Euclid into a freeway, is yet to be discovered, but some type of "main drag" between the San Bernardino Freeway and the coming Foothill Freeway may be inevitable.

We may see the beginning of a new Downtown Upland with additional store remodelings and, perhaps, the initial steps toward a pedestrian mall. We know improvements are needed to hold and stimulate business.

The business of deciding on a location for a much-needed Civic Center will likely get underway in 1964, although this one item has had more studies than necessary to be a Ph.D.

In previous studies, some believed the central core of the city should remain at its present location except for expansion to include the area bounded by Second Ave., D St., Euclid Ave., and Arrow Hwy.

Others felt it would be of greater advantage to move the Civic Center north, perhaps to Foothill Blvd. These pros and cons should be ironed out in 1964.

With a growing city like Upland, many, many changes and improvements are on or just over the horizon. As subdivisions develop, we will see wider streets, more sidewalks and expansion of our water and sewer lines.

We will no doubt see continual improvements to our educational system. We hope this will include a "bearing down" in the areas of economics and additional stress on studying about communism.

San Antonio Community Hospital will open its new addition shortly after the first of the year. This will give our community hospital facilities second to none between Los Angeles and San Diego.

There are doubtless many areas in our community which the citizens would like to see improved and THE NEWS will run a Progress Poll in next week's issue to get the ideas of the people on how they feel, what they would like to see accomplished, and how we should go about it.

This newspaper will publish its annual Progress Edition on Jan. 23 in which we hope to include the thinking of a large segment of the area's population.

Put on your thinking caps so you can participate in this poll.

What projects or goals would you like to see accomplished or begun during 1964?

TAXPAYERS' TRAIL OF WOE

Wrong-Way Radar

Radar is a remarkable scientific device which makes possible the charting of a trouble-free course by spotting potential pitfalls along the route.

It did not work out that way for the federal government in a recent financial transaction, however, and as usual, the taxpayer was left high and dry on a reef.

The woeful details were unraveled by Rep. Richard H. Poff (R.-Va.). He reported that the Pentagon purchased 47 radar predictors from a British firm for $2,145,739.60. Soon afterward they were declared surplus and the seller offered to take them off our hands for all of $114,500 — yes, you read it correctly the first time. Almost immediately the British firm sold the same machines to Portugal for $493,500. And where do you think Portugal got the money to pay for them- Right! From the United States, of course.

To recapitulate: Portugal has 47 radar predictors; the British firm is $2,524,739.60 richer; the U. S. is $2,524,739.60 poorer, and we even paid the shipping charges, the amount of which has not been disclosed.

Defenders of the wonder machine's reputation have advanced a perfect alibi for its failure to perform properly, in this instance — they point out that the radar predictors were never out of their cases until they reached Portugal.

Editor of Upland News,
Upland, California
Dear Sir:

Seems to me it would be a good idea to reserve a small block in your paper which gives a complete list of all the councilmen in the City of Upland. Also, at election times, to provide a chart showing how the councilmen voted on all the bills presented to them.

Also, print the full contents of each bill to be sold to the public at about 25c a copy.

The idea is: Every voter at election times would know exactly what his councilman is doing and thus make up his mind whether or not a new man should represent him.

Sincerely,
E. Moore

It is the Board's responsibility to assure that public service is maintained at a high level and that public expenditures do not exceed a reasonable minimum.

The preparation and adoption of the annual County budget, as well as the budgets for the special districts within the County, are controlled by the Board of Supervisors. The Board also sets the tax rate, authorized transfers between various funds, approves appropriations from reserve funds and sits as a Board of Equalization.

AUDIT PROCEDURES:

1. Reviewed procedures employed in cash control and the accounting for cash receipts.

   b. Traced items to the County Clerk's Office where daily deposits are made.
4. Disbursements of this department were verified in connection with our examination of the County Auditors' Office.

   c. Traced deposits to County Auditors' records.
4. Reviewed audit reports by County Internal Audit Staff.
5. Disbursements of this department were verified in connection with our examination of the County Auditors' records.

COMMENTS:

This department receives payments in connection with the health insurance program from employees on leave of absence or extended leave and in circumstances where payroll deductions are impractical.

The Center Stage Construction Show

By William E. Warne

This is the first of a series of six articles on California water development by the Director of the California State Department of Water Resources, who has administered resources development programs for State, federal and international government since 1935.)

Near the mouth of the Feather River Canyon hard by Oroville California is building one of the great dams of the world.

The business of putting together a work of the size and complexity of Oroville Dam, drawing together the highest of our building skills and the most advanced construction equipment, is intensely exciting. Not only those of the construction forces and in the designing rooms, but everyone is touched with this excitment.

On the canoyn wall, the Department of Water Resources has provided a Visitors' House with a sweeping view of the construction. This is proving a Mecca for sidewalk superintendents from all over the State and from afar. Three hundred thousand visited the Construction Overlook from April through November, 1963. During the peak month so far it drew 48,000; the peak day total was 4,704.

The people of California identify the key feature of the State Water Project as their dam, even as they have other great public works in the past. I had occasion to note this attitude on June 17, 1950, when I spoke in dedication of the great Shasta Dam of the Central Valley Project on the Sacramento River, while I was Assistant Secretary of the Interior.

"No one man and no agency," I said on that occasion, "can claim Shasta Dam exclusively as his own. It is the fruit of the dreams and work of millions. So let it stand here for hundreds — dare we hope thousands — of years serving the people.

"To future generations we give it as a symbol of the toil, the hope, and the aspirations of the ordinary citizen of our Twentieth Century. He has found a way in our democracy to join a cooperation with his fellowman, and through his government — local, state and national — to do his great works and to reap the full measure of the fruit of the earth."

Oroville Dam is being built with the same cooperation, under sponsorship of the State rather than the United States, as was Shasta Dam, but no less a product of the great drive of the Twentieth Century toward the conquering by the common man of his environment to produce a better life.

Dams and their related power and water works marks the era, emphatically in Western United States, but elsewhere in our country as well, which may well be known in the distant future as the "Day of the Dam."

Peculiarly, in the United States the subjugation of the rivers has gone hand in hand with the advance of conservation of resources and the national economic development. I noted the American innovation in irrigation in 1951, in an article used by the Northwestern University in its Centennial Academic Conference on population and resources, as follows:

"American irrigation has been based increasingly on the policy of putting water aside in one year for use during the later year. Where Joseph stored the mature grain for the lean seven years in Egypt's history, we store water in reservoirs behind dams to fatten the lean years themselves."

The State Water Project, of which the Oroville Dam is so important a part, will serve agriculture through irrigation, but even a greater portion of its conserved waters will go for industrial and domestic use in cities, some of them hundreds of miles from the reservoir.

This shift of emphasis illustrates the advancing development of California. Agriculture has continued to flourish in our State. California consistently for years has outstripped all other states in the value of its farm products, with recent totals well above three billions of dollars a year.

The number of acres irrigated in California has continued to expand and is now approaching 9,000,000. But population growth, urbanization and industrial development have advanced at even more rapid rates.

The State Water Project was approved by the Legislature in 1959, endorsed by the people at the general election in 1960, fully launched into the construction stage in 1961, and is now advancing.

To date $54,224,000 of construction has been completed and contracts valued at $334,801,000 have been let and are under way. The construction program is aimed at delivering water to Perris Reservoir in Riverside County in 1972. It is on schedule.

The construction completed includes Frenchman Dam upstream from Oroville, the relocation around the Oroville Dam of Highway 40-A and the Western Pacific Railroad and major parts of the South Bay Aqueduct from Bethany Forebay to Arroyo Del Valle.

That under way includes the Antelope Valley Dam, also in the Upper Feather River, Oroville Powerhouse, the San Luis Dam (joint U.S.-California), sections of the North San Joaquin division of the California Aqueduct and of the Joint Use Facilities of the San Luis Canal, and additional sections of the South Bay Aqueduct.

The construction marches south toward the Tehachapis. Already pilot tunnels are being drilled along the alignment of the big conduits in those mountains and access roads are under construction. Rights of way are largely in hand for several of the terminal reservoirs, including that at Perris.

The construction of Oroville Dam this fall began the phase of placement of the rock and impervious material in the great embankment. Oro Dam Constructors, the contractor, has put together a most ingenious conveyance system to move the material from the construction site.

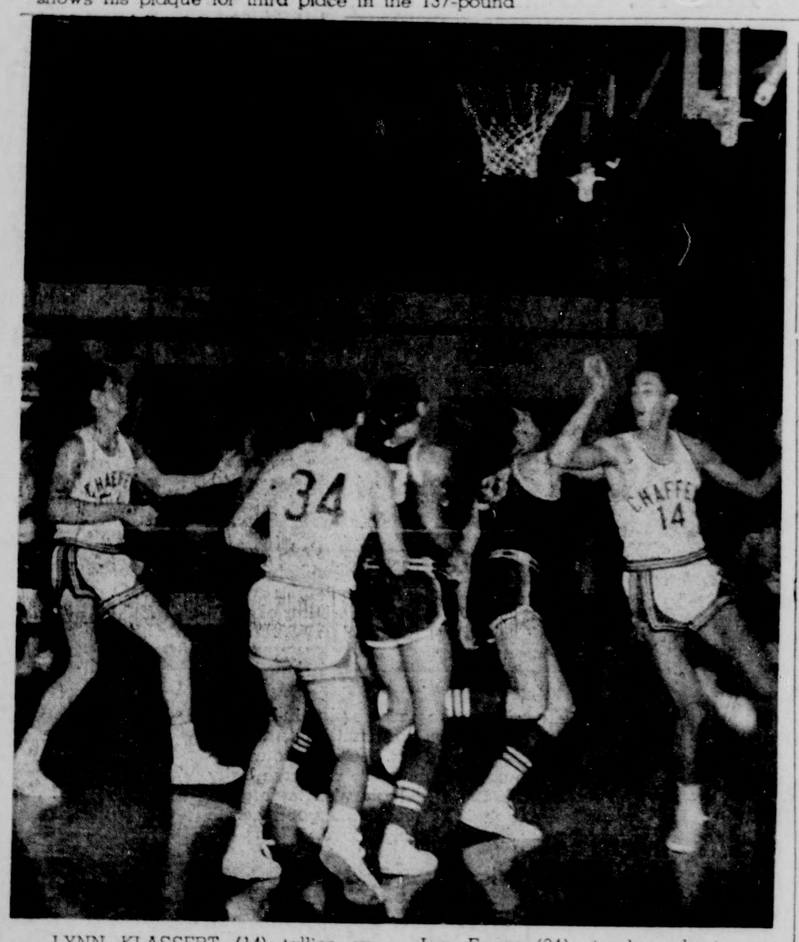
This includes specially designed rail cars that are dumped without being uncoupled from the train by a rotor that spins them two at a time over a huge hopper. Under the hopper, a conveyor belt with steel cables for cords loads the fill material and carries it across the river where it is automatically graded and piled. The material again moves out on a system of belts that command the whole site. Tremendous rubber-tired, self-propelled buggies spread it in carefully controlled layers for consolidation and compaction.

It is a busy scene here in the neighborhood of the concrete core block that was built during 1963. The Feather River has been turned into Diversion Tunnel No. 1, which was dug through the abutment under the Visitors' House.

The river flows for four-fifths of a mile through this 35 foot tunnel, out of the way of the embankment placement that now goes on in the old stream bed.

Inside this same mountain abutment, the great powerhouse is being excavated in solid rock. Next spring, the spillway excavation will be started across the canyon.

This show is stage-front on the center stage for a run now until Oroville Dam is completed in 1967 and the powerplant begins operating in 1968.



LYNN KLASSERT (14) tallies another score for Chaffey in its game with Cerritos College during the championship side eliminations in the Chaffey College Invitational Basketball Tournament. Del Turner (54) and Jess Evans (34) stand ready to rebound. Cerritos, however, won the game, 74-57, and went on to take Tourney third place. Riverside took the meet's top honors.

Vocational Nurse Course At Chaffey

Would you like to be a vocational nurse and help people in your community who are ill? Could you make time to go to school for three semesters? If so, there are still openings in the Chaffey College Vocational Nursing class that starts on Jan. 27.

If you are interested and if you are a woman between the ages of 17 and 50, you may be eligible. You must be a high school graduate or be able to indicate on certain tests that you could have completed high school.

You also need to be eligible for admission to Chaffey College as a regular student.

If you are not now enrolled, why not make arrangements to take the College placement tests on Jan. 2 or 11? Another test will be given on Jan. 18 but those taking it will probably have to register late. (Placement tests are used as an aid to guidance personnel, not to limit enrollment.)

In addition, have your high school and/or college transcripts sent to the Chaffey Office of Admissions as soon as possible. Finally, make early arrangements with the Admissions Office for an interview and an application to the Vocational Nursing Program.

For further information, contact the Office of Admissions at YUkon 7-1737.

County School Boards Oppose Unification

On Dec. 12 Mr. Richard Allred trustee represented the Chaffey Union High School District at an augmented committee meeting of the County Committee for School District Organization.

The purpose of the meeting was to reconsider a recommendation to the State Department of Education for organization of the Chaffey Union High School District.

Prior to the meeting, the West End School District Study Group had agred to oppose formation of a single unified school district within the present high school district boundries, a plan which seemed to be the only acceptable one from the standpoint of the State Department of Education.

Mr. Allred reported that, after considerable discussion, a motion to form a single large unified district of all schools within our boundaries was made and seconded by two members of the County Committee. The vote on the motion was 10 no, 4 yes.

Having failed to muster support for the single unified proposal, the County Committee must now transmit this information to the State Department of Education for their subsequent action.

It is within the state's prerogative to now study the facts of reorganization of our area and call an election for a specific proposal.

By reason of the action taken, local school boards may now support or oppose any proposal inasmuch as the proposal will have been presented by the State Department without local board approval.

It is estimated that at least a year will pass before an election is called.

Full Student Potential Difficult Says New Book

The charge that American high schools, because of their increasing emphasis on the search for talent, are actually making it more difficult for some students to reach their full potential in society, is presented in a recent book, "The Educational Decision-Makers," of which Dr. Aaron V. Ciscourel, assistant professor of sociology at the University of California, Riverside, is co-author. His collaborator is Dr. John I. Kitsuse of Northwestern University.

The talent search, with its focus on selecting and preparing students for college, is conducted by a bureaucracy composed of administrators, counselors, and social workers, the authors assert. These bureaucrats use fallible instruments, such as psychological tests, and help to bring about decisions that point students toward or away from college entrance.

"The serious issue," say the authors, "is that the college non-college decision has become the decision with reference to which the student is assigned to courses, evaluated as to performance, and organizationally processed."

One concern of the authors is that the system is forcing academic specialization too early; a second is that the procedure "routinely assigns students to counselors who not only monitor their progress but actively seek and probe for 'problems,' which in most instances are merely normal signs of adolescence.

A third is the effect of the fact that the criterion for success of the counseling proccedure is the proportion of graduates who are admitted to college.

Since the number actually admitted depends to a considerable extent on the ability of families to provide financial support, "such conditions would lead high-school administrators and their personnel to spend more time with the processing of middle- and upper-class students for college entrance."

The authors do not offer a series of specific recommendations for reform of the schools. They do urge, however, that their doctrines, policies, and practices "should be continually examined and subjected to the test of democratic ideals."
